Just For Fun Rating (0-5):

Age Range: 4+ years (also a crayon option)

Diversity Themes: Race/Ethnicity; Self-Expression

Potential Questions/Comments/Games:

1. Tell me about the people you are drawing. Tell me about the colors you chose.
2. Draw different people (can be stick figures!) and describe each as you are going. Encourage your child to do the same-relating it to people you know or famous people
3. Ask your child if there are any colors missing or ones that shouldn't be there.
4. Do these colors match your skin exactly? What about others?

5. _____

6. _____

7. _____

Continuing the Conversation

We often use the words 'White' or 'Black' to describe people's skin color. Is this accurate? Does that matter? What other words can we use to describe people? Go on a scavenger hunt to find items that represent a range of skin colors (underwear, make-up, etc.). Do they represent everyone? Why or why not?
