Potential Questions/Comments:

1. Tiana is a very hardworking girl. Do you think all princesses are hard workers?
  - a. What about all girls? Are they hard workers?
  - b. What about the boys and girls in your school? Who works harder or are they equal? How do you know?
2. What was Tiana's happily ever after? The restaurant or marrying Prince Naveen?
3. Should girls want to marry princes and become princesses? Why is that a good or bad thing?

Continuing the Conversation

Do you think that Tiana is truly the first Disney princess? In a lot of ways, she is not a princess, but a regular girl. Why is this significant in the context of her being the first Disney princess? Would it have been better for her to be a more 'traditional' princess? Why or why not? Tiana is shown as having one close friend - a White female who had a professional relationship with Tiana and her mother. Is this a realistic portrayal of friendship? What about the fact that Tiana did not appear to have any Black friends?
